My dream is to make it to college and play college football. To one day make it to the NFL and play for my dream team. To inspire kids my age to chase their goals and never give up. To be successful and have fun doing what I love.

I am an amateur bodybuilder with the intention of going professional someday. When I am not training, I am a certified personal trainer and life coach, while actively pursuing a Master's degree in Therapy. It is my dream to share my passion for lifting weights as a method of self-actualizing into the person that I am meant to be, which will then encourage others to follow their passions and be truly happy themselves. I love who I have become, and I want to make a global impact by my own example, empowering women AND men to live healthier and happier lives!

Hi, my I'm LJ and I play football. My ultimate dream is to become a professional footballer, I want it so bad and I am going to try my best to make it. I play for Leicester City Academy. I'm 12 years old and started playing football for a club when I was 4, however the first time didn't go so well, I didn't enjoy it and left within a few weeks. I kept playing in my garden for fun and then found a girls club through school and joined that at the age of 7. I played in goal at first and within a season I quickly switched to outfield. I was enjoying my football and stayed there for 3 seasons. During my time at that club I went to some Leicester trials in my second season there, they went well but the managers realised that I was in the wrong age group and never got back to me. I was still determined to get into the club and went to the summer camps that they held. I was awarded a star of the day trophy at the camp and a few months later was offered a trial for the right age group. I was nervous but played my game and got in. During that season I played well and improved immensely. I then got back in the season after (this season) with new coaches and new people in the team since two Leicester teams joined together. We were told that at the end of the season we would all be made into one team, I wasn't nervous for this and just tried my best all season. As a player I have improved so much and I am very thankful to all of my managers that have helped me in my footballing journey. I have a retrial at leicester soon to see if I get in next season so I will go in and try my best in that and hope for the best. Thanks for reading my story and I hope it inspires you!! And never forget do not give up!! 🌍 🙌
