Brett Phan

My name is Brett Phan, and I am very grateful to play for and attend high school at the LA Galaxy Academy. My dreams are to play at the highest level of football I possibly can and ultimately play professionally as well as play for the national team. Division 1 college soccer would also be amazing because education is important to me. I am currently on the U17 LA Galaxy team, and I was also recently called into the most recent U16 U.S.

Youth National Team training camp this past November, which included only 24 players. I am thankful to my family, LA Galaxy and US Soccer for the opportunity to chase my dreams. I am also thankful to my younger brother, Andre, for being a great training partner.

Thiago Morales

My name is Thiago Morales. I am state level U-12 soccer player. I can successfully play the sport because my parents are supportive. They put the trust required and I give the effort.

Truly speaking, my dream is to make my parents proud by winning games both for my nation and my parents. Phenom academy tournament 2022 was won by me and turns out to be my biggest achievement so far. The biggest challenge is focusing on the ball itself. It is not easy to keep myself away from distractions.
