My goals are pretty simple and straight forward. Just to be the best me that I can be! Over the years my appearance has changed. It took me awhile but I love my body! Obsessed with the new additions. Learning to love my curves. We are in the like phase at the moment! Being in Bikini Magazine again but with the newer version of me is just a dream come true!

I have a few achievements. Started my own business making jewelry for kids. Moved a few times while keeping life and friendships aligned and most of all raising my beautiful children.

My main challenge is just accepting me for me and not comparing myself to the old me or anyone around me. I make all these excuses for not working out. One day I'll get there and feel much better. Until then I just push forward and always smile! Positivity can overcome all obstacles of life!

Building a strong foundation for future success is important to me. I am a mother, a grandmother and a foster parent who works full time in healthcare. My goals are always first to my family, making sure I am well for them. This includes making sure my health and fitness, my job growth and stability are in check and my mental. My goals for life are always to be more organized, prepared and to obtain the foundation for the future of my family. My work goals are to always be open to education and learning, possibly even going back to school for fitness and nutrition. I love science and want to broaden my horizons. I've achieved a lot this past year as I reflect, including taking care of and reuniting with family, a steady 3 ½ years at my job as a Patient Care Liaison, taking my supplements and trying to eat better, exercise more. In life my biggest achievement was winning first in my class in bodybuilding and I will make that a goal in the years to come.
