I am a scientist and photographer living in the Washington DC area. Early on, I was mainly a landscape and wild-life photographer. As an outdoor photographer, I was fortunate enough to travel to many countries in six continents and capture many unique and beautiful moments. In the past two years, I have become passionate about portrait photography capturing the spirit and essence of people. Being a scientist, I love experimenting with my photography whatever the genre.

I was fortunate enough to work with Tami Phan recently during the cherry blossom season in Washington DC area. She is a Vietnamese American and eye doctor by profession. She turned to art and fashion for creativity, balance and happiness. That led her to open her dress designing business (WowFlyingdress) based in Houston, TX. It was a cold and blustery day however Tami worked me to make the photos possible. During our photoshoot, we kept on discussing and experimenting during the photoshoot. Working with her helped me experiment with off camera flashes, high speed sync, helped me understand the process of incorporation of OCFs during shooting with ambient light and hone my skills as a portrait photographer. I am so glad to have worked with her and looking forward to working with her again. I look forward to continue in my photography journey and hope to work with many more in the DMV area to fulfill their photography needs.
