My name is A'shian. But you can call me Shian. I started gymnastics when I was 5 years old and I'm 7 now. My parents enrolled me in a recreational class twice a week. My coaches noticed how well I was doing and I moved up really quickly but I wasn't being challenged enough. So we switched gym's.

At the new gym, I made team in a few months. I started in Xcel Bronze and did really good. I was first place in all events and took first place all around. I'm currently in USAG DP Level 3. My biggest challenge is remembering to lock my legs and point my toes! I have been gaining skills pretty quickly so I set goals on what I wanted to achieve on each event before Thanksgiving. On bars, my goal is to get my Kip. On beam, I want to get my back walk over. On floor I wanted to get my back tuck and I actually just rung the bell for that one! And lastly on vault I just remember to stay tight. Vault is my worst event but I still averaged 9.4 last season. So, I'm pretty solid.

When I grow up, I want to compete in gymnastics in college, and hopefully at an HBCU like Fisk. My favorite gymnasts of course is Simone Biles, as well as Jordan Chiles and Trinity Thomas. I love them! I want to tumble as well as Simone, be as powerful as Jordan and stick everything like Trinity! After college I hope I make it to the Olympics but if not, I want to open my own gym and be a coach for an Olympic Gymnast! If that doesn't work out then I'm gonna be a teacher.

I still have a long time before then but I always upload my progress on my Instagram @shian_got_flips. Make sure you follow me if you want to keep up with me! For now I'll just keep working on my Kip! What's the secret to these things anyway!
