what I love, and so ensemble or not (nowadays I'm usually not) I step on that stage. With the lights shining down on me, as I step into a new place and time, and my friends become my enemies, lovers, comrades, or sometimes just stay my friends. I play, I dramatacise, and I act, and I love to act. I love the way that I can spread joy and entertainment through my acting, and the way that spreading that joy reflects back upon me. So I will continue to act, model, sing, and do whatever I can to be shown on screen. I hope you'll follow my journey, you could do this by following my instagram @wlchauvin, but if you can't or don't want to then I atleast hope that one day as you're sat with friends, or family crying, applauding, or laughing with me on screen as I accomplish my goal, that you'll remember this, and feel a glimpse of nostalgic joy as that kid who tried his best from a little town outside Sacramento, gets to where he wants to be. Thank you for entertaining this fantasy.

My name is Flames born and raised in Philippines, Graduated in Bachelor's Degree of Science in Nursing. Currently working as a full time Recruitment and Compliance Coordinator in a Private Homecare Agency. Despite my busy schedule working in the office I decided to explore and try something different. I started doing modelling as a hobbyist. Since when I was a little modeling has always been one of my passion. I'm now a freelance model and have been in the modelling industry for a little over a year now. Since then, I have been modelled and involved in the creative industry. I have done runway shows, I've walked dozens of runways with poise both local and International. Also been featured in magazines and done some commercial work. I have a huge passion for fashion and walking in a runway and being in front of the camera it makes me happy. And what I love being a model I have the opportunity to explore and travel abroad, expressing my creativity, meeting new interesting people and experience so many new things. I am very passionate about my work and I always strive to be the best that I can be. I am a hard worker and I am always willing to go the extra mile to get the perfect shot. I have decided to chase that dream because I want to be someone's inspiration. I love life and can't wait to see what's next.

I walked for prestigious designer Merlin Castell. In terms of acting I have been spending as much time as possible on my school's stage, in the choir room and with both of my VAPA instructors. If you somehow visited my school during lunch you would likely see me working on my school's set for our fall production of Clue (I have never taken a day of a tech theater class). I have missed one school play since starting highschool, and with any luck that will be the only one. The competition in the theater can be hard sometimes, my school has many talented actors and actresses, and at times I've only been able to earn myself a role in the ensemble. That breaks me, I've looked at the lead actors when I was just in the ensemble and I've thought about giving up, I've thought about just going back to something that I've always been good at. I've had those thoughts, and have fully considered taking the easy way out in life, but I can't. I can't give up on

Hello, my name is Waylon Chauvin, and I dream of becoming a movie actor. At the moment I am a model living right outside Sacramento California. I've been working towards my goal mostly with school plays, and community theater. I've had my fair share of struggles in this pursuit. Most notably I can't sing, or more accurately I couldn't sing. When I first found my love for the theater arts I could sing about as well as a dying bird, but as far as I'm concerned that's part of the fun of it. Where I live most opportunities for acting are musicals, and so to better my chances of getting a lead role, I started singing lessons. At first progress was slow. I had been told by my parents almost my entire life that I was tone deaf, and that certainly put a damper on my progress just because I didn't have the confidence to sing full voice. With many hours and the help of some very talented individuals I can now sing ok, it's not much, but the journey towards that greatness which I hope to achieve is just as important to me as achieving greatness. It's not about how people remember me, it's just about knowing that I'm giving my all to achieve my goals, and as far as I'm concerned I have been. In terms of singing I've earned myself a spot in my school's most advanced choir having never been in a choir before. I have worked on modeling doing many TFP photo shoots and small runway shows for local designers. I was able to participate in New York fashion week this year, where

Since I was a teenager, I have always been the one in the family or among friends to be holding a camera and capturing the moments or scenery. In the early 2000's I finally bought my first DSLR Camera and began my journey as a photographer.

Up until 2015 or so, I did mostly landscape type photography, lugging my camera and tripod on day trips and vacations snapping away. Much of my early stuff is pretty bad, both in composition and overall, but as I kept at it, my work improved a lot.

In 2013 a family member from out of state asked if I would take some family photos of them when they came out for a visit. I told her that I was horrible at portrait / people photography, that I just did landscapes. She kept on me and I looked for and found some workshops on Meetup and thus begun my transition to now doing mostly portrait work.

One of my wife's cousins, Lala, did some modeling on the side and told me that she would gladly be my Muse and thanks to her, I had a very patient subject to gain confidence and skills. Nearly all of my work is in a studio that my friend Andy (@studio1764andy) owns, it is a large studio with a lot of options, but I really want to start doing more outdoor work as I love the look and the options and variety it presents.

Since I work a full time job and typically reserve weekends for my wife Yvonne, shooting outdoors is limited to Spring and Summer, where the daylight hours are longer when I get off work.

I work with a number of aspiring models or those who have been modeling for a while who want to build their portfolios, improve their skills or just have a dope idea they want to shoot. I also work with non-models, everyday people who see my work on IG and are inspired to have some nice photos taken of them. Late 2020 and 2021 brought a mini baby-boom with the Pandemic and I found myself doing a lot of maternity photos. I found that I really loved the thought that I was capturing memories that would last a lifetime for the mother and child to be.

The photos that I am sharing today are of Brijhe (IG: bfrecks__), I noticed her on IG as she had done a number of fashion shows with a few of my regular models and I loved her look, so I reached out to her about doing a shoot together. It turns out that our shoot marked her one year anniversary of modeling. She is working hard to get as many shoots and fashion shows as she can and you can see in her work that she has quickly improved her skill set. She was great to work with and hopefully we will be working together more in the future.

My name is Samantha French and I have only been modelling for a few months now, and I can honestly see it has been an excellent confidence booster as well as is a fun thing to do in general! I have worked with numerous photographers doing various shoots, and have done some fashion as well as lingerie modelling, which I have very much enjoyed and was grateful for the opportunity. As wonderful as it would be to become a successful runway / fashion model (I can dream!), in all honesty my goal is to just achieve happiness in general and to accept myself for who I am. I left a coercive relationship in which I was very restricted in what I could do, and I'm happy to say I have come out stronger and smiling. I want anyone who has been in a situation similar to myself, or anyone who doubts themselves in any way to look at themselves and realise their worth; life is too short to be unhappy. It's never too late to try and achieve your dreams... the main thing is - you still try.

My name is Natalie, I'm 23 and my current ambition/ goal in life is to help domestic abuse survivors and guide them in a better direction. Since Covid hit domestic violence in the household has gone up drastically, I was one of those cases. Since then, I've been putting in volunteer hours at my local domestic violence shelter. It has been a challenging path but I am a survivor, through the guidance and support of others I've been able to overlook the challenges and obstacles in front of me and stay focused on my goals and all of the positive things that I have achieved so far. My dream is to one day help other women (or men) who have been in domestic violence situations. To one day speak up for those who can't. I'm inspired to fulfill this dream not only because of my former relationship but also because of the abusive relationship my parents had, my mom is a domestic abuse survivor but she never spoke up about it and that cost her, her life. Not only does that sadden me because it cost her her precious life, but the lives of many others as well. Needless to say, that's what motivates me to achieve my dream, The dream of being able to speak up for those who can't to avoid any more lives being lost to domestic violence. I hope to overall end domestic violence altogether.
