My name is Jayley January. I am 11 years old and in the 5th grade. I started cheering when I was in the first grade. Along with cheerleading, I also play basketball, soccer and run track. Being a student athlete, pushes me to have goals for myself. One goal I have for myself is to continue to be the best athlete and student I can be. I am currently working on my full twisting layout, and I have set a goal to have that down in 6 months. If I continue to work and practice hard, I will be able to achieve that goal.

I have received many achievements in school and being an athlete. I am a level 4 tumbler meaning I have many different tumbling passes. I have won many cheer competitions with my team. I have also competed and won several different basketball tournaments. Outside of my athletic achievements, I continue to maintain an A average in school. I also serve on my school's student council.

One of my dreams I've had is to be a student athlete in college just like my dad was. I don't care if I am playing basketball, running track, or cheering on the cheer team, I want to do it at the next level. I love being a student athlete. It pushes me to be the best person I can be. Sydney is a 7-year-old Gymnast from the Midwest who lives and breathes her sport. She earned the title of Nebraska state champion two years in a row, taking gold in her first year as a level two then again her second year as a level three. She tested her strength in the TOPs program last year, earning a coveted spot on the National Diamond Team, which consists of the top 50 7-year-old gymnasts in the country. She's currently training for level 4 in the USAG DP program but hopes to score out and move up to 5 before the season is over. She's also pushing upgrades hard now that State Championships are over, her sights set on the increasingly difficult 9-year-old TOPs testing requirements. But she consistently performs better under pressure and never backs down from a challenge. Her ultimate goal is to become an elite gymnast, competing against the top athletes in the country and possibly earning a spot on the US National Team. She's dedicated to the sport and absolutely loves every second she spends in the gym, even when it's hard. Wherever it takes her in life, one thing is for sure: she's going to have fun getting there!
