Oh wow where do I begin?

Well I suppose my fitness journey began back in high-school. My dad was building an impressive career in education so that meant we moved around a lot as he climbed the ladder. All through school I was always known as the fat kid. I ate out of boredom and depression which led me to be heavy.

It wasn't until high-school where I was tired of the bullying and the disregard. That started a whole new game for me. Then I began my journey.

Training long and training hard. I have hit goals and I have hit set backs. Most recent set back was 2024 when I was diagnosed with chronic Crohn's colitis. I spent 3 months in the hospital fighting to stay alive. Keeping the mindset was rough but I knew what I had to do.

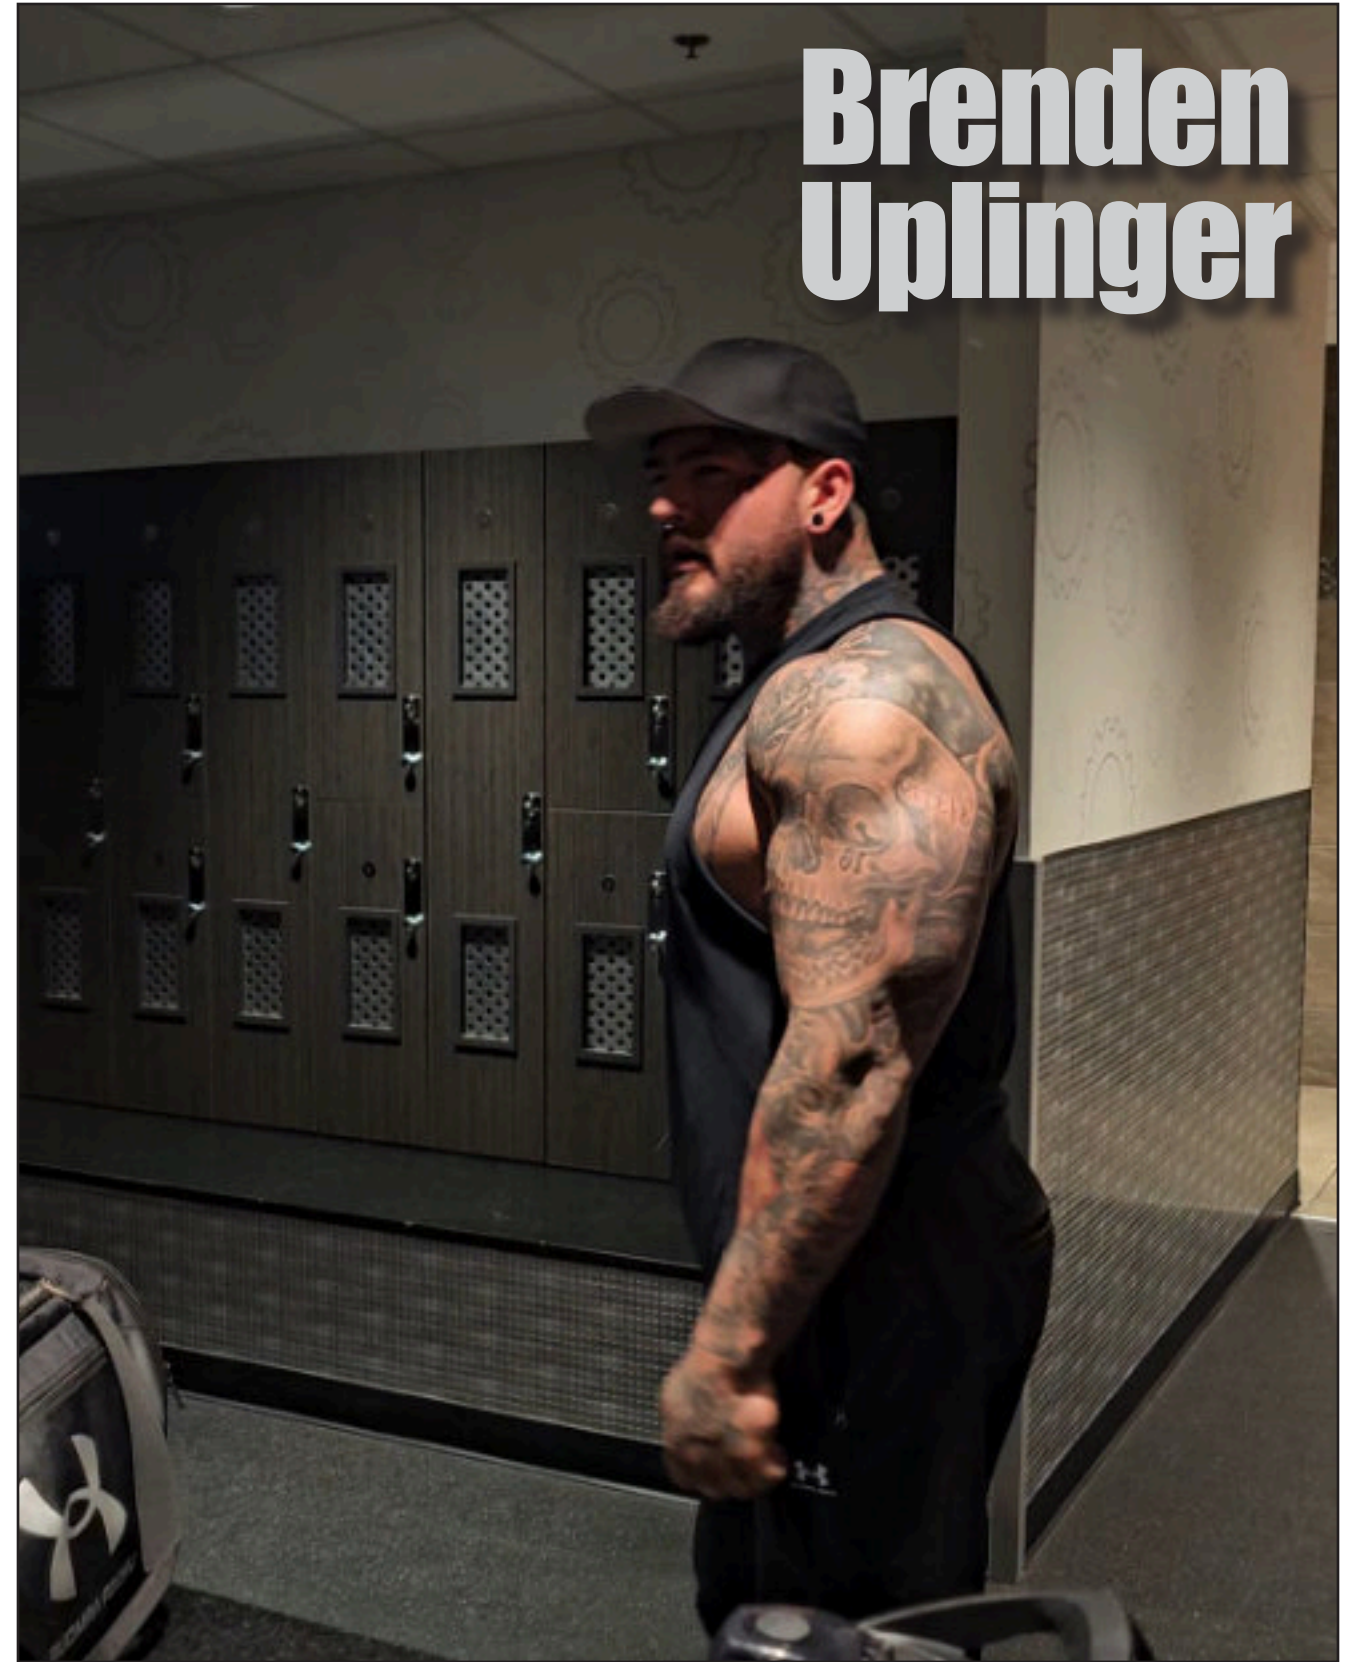

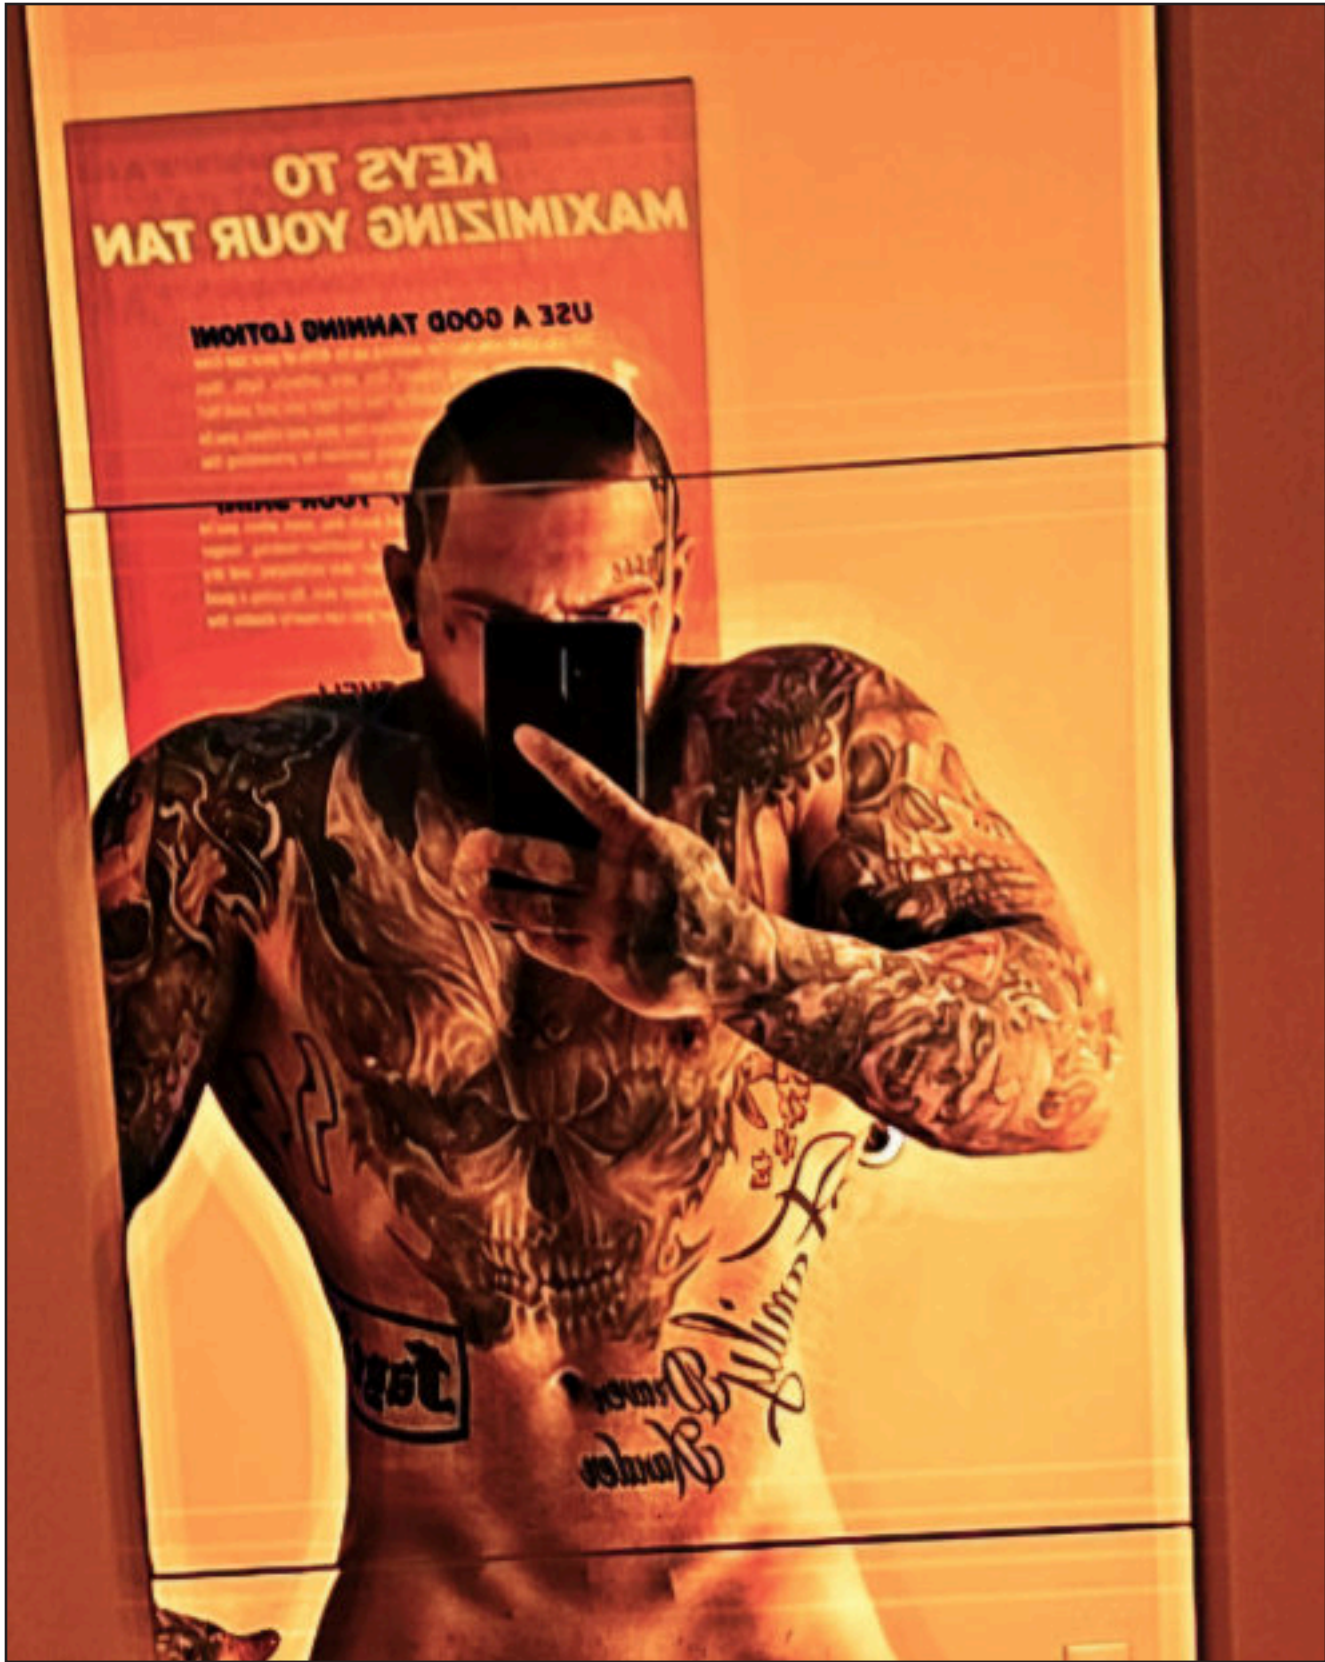

My support system has been and always was amazing. My family, my friends and the one who's witnessed it all, Marisa. Marisa is the mother of our two beautiful baby boys. She also is my tattoo artist, and a phenomenal one at that. Marisa Dusetzina, owner of Klexos Tattoo Studio in Monroeville PA. She's the hardest working girl I've ever met and took her "never back down, always better yourself" mindset and kept me pushing for the goals I have.

One of my goals is to make it to the stage and compete in bodybuilding. I want to prove to myself and others it can be done. Even with the level of illness I have and its severity. Proving the doctors wrong. Proving the concept of Crohn's wrong.

I will reach the stage. I will continue to train people and help better lives. I will continue to cover myself in Marisa's flawless artwork.

NEVER BACK DOWN. NEVER QUIT. ALWAYS GRIND.

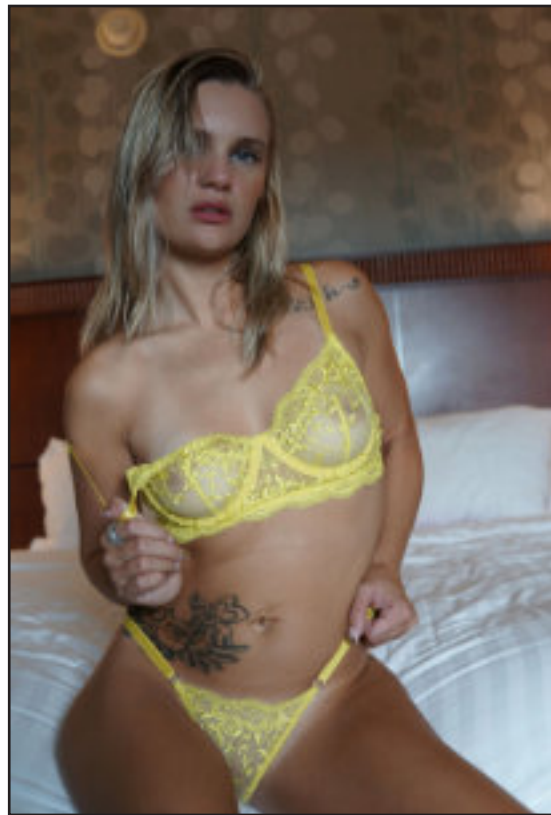

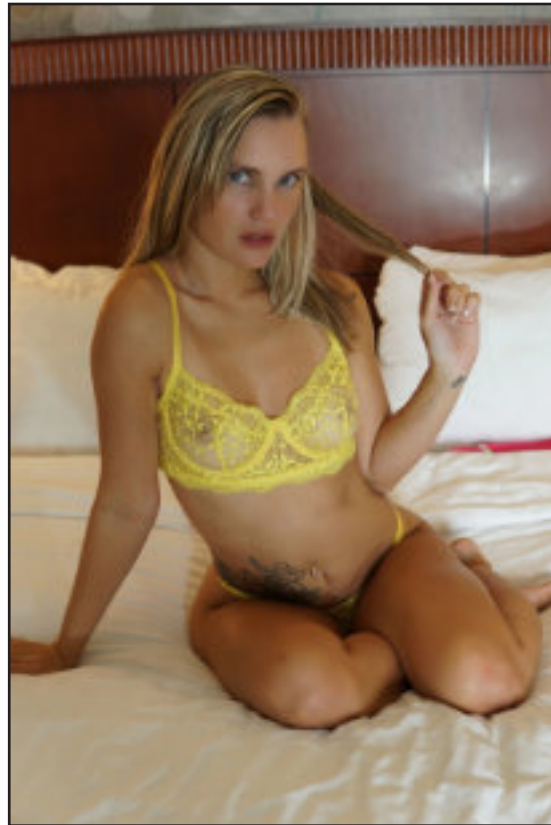

I aspire to be published in Playboy someday. My goals are to go back to school and get my PHD in psychology and open my own practice helping people with drugs and alcohol.

My aspirations is to be featured in a major motion film seen here in the US and the UK. I also have aspirations of owning my own home care facility for the elderly and disabled, which can sleep up to 10 residents.

My current goal is to make it to Paris/London for

Fashion week 2025 where I will walk on the runways of Paris! I take one day at a time while keeping the energy around me positive, GOOD VIBES ONLY

I have always loved the art of modeling and fashion, but I could not make it a priority until I fulfilled my obligation to serving our country. After serving 21 years in the military, my dreams and aspirations were to finally pursue my passion in the beauty and modeling industry. I began my entrepreneurial journey in 2022, where I am now the proud owner and CEO of Aurora Rose Beauty Spa, located in Fayetteville, North Carolina. I am a licensed esthetician, specializing in skin care, body sculpting, and cosmetic tattooing. I began modeling in 2023 and my career has taken off, being featured in a variety of fashion shows working with the most talented designers, models, and photographers. Also, I have been casted in a major role for a web series due to premiere in the summer of 2025. Balancing my career with being a mother and wife have certainly been challenging, but having a strong family foundation and faith in God has made all of this possible. I look forward to future opportunities!
