My name is Arianna Armijo, I train at Silverback Jiu-jitsu in Clovis New Mexico. My Professor is Daniel Casarez, a Black Belt under Marcus Antelante in Dallas. Our gym is a Ares Jiu-jitsu Affliate. I've been training in Jiu-jitsu for almost 5 years now here in October. I am a sponsored athlete with Grappling Industries and recently had my first tournament with them, I can't wait to help them promote the organization as it continues to grow! I appreciate their opportunity they have given me to represent them! I also have a SuperFight coming up in Houston here in November so currently I am in camp preparing for the special opportunity that I have with Submission Hunter Pro SuperFights! My name is Arielle Murillo. Born in Arizona and now residing in Texas, I am a passionate JiuJitsu athlete and a proud small business owner. Currently holding a grey/black belt.

My journey in JiuJitsu began almost three years ago. I remember stepping onto the mat for the first time, with nerves bubbling in my stomach as I anticipated the struggle of learning something new. Yet, I didn't want to live with regrets, so I pushed myself to give it a shot. Much to my surprise, I fell in love with the sport and the incredible community that embraced me. It truly feels like being part of a big family, all united by our shared love for JiuJitsu.

Just four months into my training, I decided to test my skills and entered my first tournament in Lubbock, Texas. That experience was exhilarating, and I haven't stopped competing ever since! I currently train multiple times a week at Vagabond BJJ (@vagabond_bjj) where I've found my second home and have recently started JiuJitsu focused workouts at Elite Pride Performance with Coaches David (@thepridecoach) and

Chase (@_coachweb_). This year alone, I've competed 12 times, with more competitions lined up before the year ends. My goal and dream is to become a black belt world champion and, hopefully, inspire other kids and adults to see that we can achieve anything we set our minds to. Until then, I will keep working harder towards that dream, and I know that with the help of God, my coaches, and my family, it will happen one day.

I feel incredibly blessed to have amazing coaches who believe in me and support me every step of the way. I know for a fact that my JiuJitsu journey wouldn't be the same without them—they truly are the best!

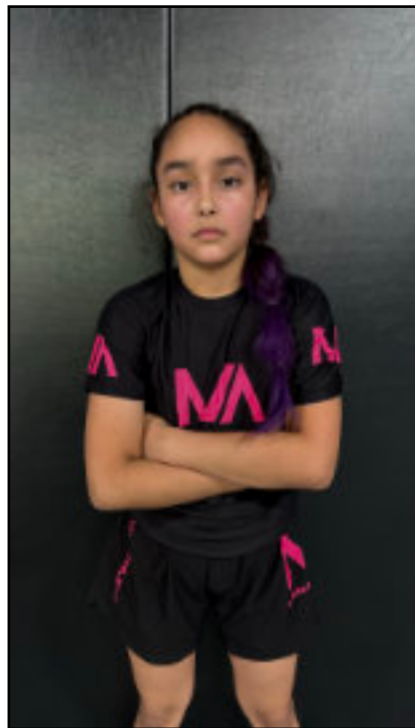

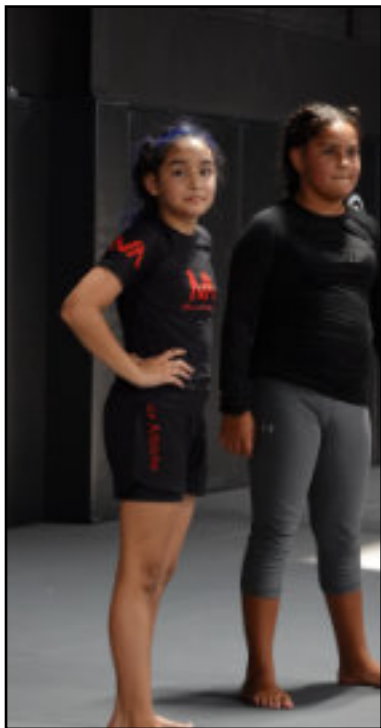

A little over a year ago, I took a leap of faith and launched my own athletic and no-gi brand, Menace Athletix (@menaceathletix). After a year of planning and overcoming setbacks, I finally brought my vision to life. I'm proud to say that we've released four limited edition collections so far, with exciting plans for new collections and apparel for the 2024 Fall/

Winter season on the horizon.

As I look to the future, I'm filled with anticipation for what's to come, both as an athlete and a small business owner. I am grateful to God, my family, my coaches and my friends for their unwavering support of my dreams and my business.

My name Issy. I'm known as ISSYBJJ. I started my Jiu-Jitsu journey in May of 2021, when I was 8 years old. My dad put me into Jiu-Jitsu because I was bullied by bigger kids and he wanted me to gain confidence in my self. I was always into combat sports. When I was four years old, I would go with my dad to the boxing gym and watch him train. I always asked him to train me and once in a while he would hold the pads for me and I would hit them for a few rounds. I always sat next to my dad during boxing and MMA fights and we would bet snacks on who was going to win the fights. I won a lot of snacks. One day while watching fights, my dad asked me if I wanted to try Jiu-Jitsu. He explained to me what Jiu-Jitsu was and I said I wanted to try it. My first day of Jiu-Jitsu at Mako Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu in Tucson Arizona, I was nervous but the coaches were great with me and the teammates helped me learn the techniques. I fell in love with Jiu-Jitsu and I never stopped going. I started competing after training for four months. Competition makes me nervous but also makes me feel accomplished. I have had great wins and tough losses but I have grown a lot in the sport. Some of my achievements include capturing the Last Warrior Standing Super Fight Championship at grey belt, being a six-time Old Pueblo Open Gold Medalist, and becoming an ADCC Open Champion at the intermediate level. My goals are to win kids Jiu-Jitsu Con and kids Pan American Championships. I also hope to be invited to compete in the ADCC Kids World Championships. My biggest goal is to become one of the youngest female Black Belts. Jiu-Jitsu changed my life. I am no longer intimidated by anyone and I believe in myself. I share my journey through Instagram, so I can motivate other girls like me to be strong and confident. I also coach little kids class and help the younger kids learn Jiu-Jitsu. There is always a challenge when it comes to Jiu-Jitsu and I never stop learning. Sometimes I have great days on the mat and other days I feel like nothing I do works. On the days where I feel frustrated at practice, I learn the most. I just hit three years in Jiu-Jitsu and was surprised by my coaches with a grey and black belt during one of our big promotions. With every new belt that I receive, I know the competitions gets harder and more is expected of me in the gym. I try and be a leader at my Jiu-Jitsu gym and I hope to open my own gym when I get my Black belt.
