I had a lot of ankle surgery in my late twenties and could not walk well for years during this and physical therapy. Subsequently, I gained a lot of weight and lost site of enjoying my body. I started losing weight, had some mire fun surgery, and now I plan to keep enjoying a body I built that I actually like.

I have recently started an OnlyFans page after taking the plunge 2 years ago when I opened my page. I now have the confidence to regularly post content and in 3 weeks I have a great following who are loving what I am posting. It has gave me a lot of confidence and I am loving it. I have always been into photography as I studied this at college but I was always behind the camera and now it's my turn to be in the spotlight!

My dream is to be successful at whatever it is I do in life and to pursue what ever sets my soul on fire. I want to encourage and show others anything is possible if you put your mind to it. My goal is to keep being successful in my construction job and also be a successful model as well. My achievements in life are, I have become a certified welder, I have been nominated for women building success in the trades, I have accomplished 436 hours a training in two months and three weeks and was only required 288. I have been hand picked by the Vice President of the company to do lean projects for the company, I have also received received a Recognition award for being a partner with production and working together on quality issues.

Some Challenges I have had in life are always putting my time and effort into everyone else but my self but I have started to learn that I need to be able to put my self first In order to love my self and be happy while I still care for my loved ones. Some times we forgot to take a step back from life and do things for ourselves as we are always so busy taking care of others. A lot of times I fail to ask for help as I'm to stubborn and would rather do it on my own so I'm learning that sometimes it's ok to ask for help when needed you don't always have to struggle alone.

My modeling dream started off when I was a kid. I grew up always wanting to be a model, but was bullied my entire life and told I couldn't do it. I knew in my heart I could. So I kept trying, and now at 28, I am a full-time multi-published professional traveling model. I didn't give up, I followed my dreams and fully accepted myself for who I am. Keep striving for your dreams, it's worth it.

 About me

Hi, my name is Chrissie, I model under the name of Knotti3Ang31L ModelKA. I'm 5'5" tall and a single mum living in Ayrshire in Scotland. I work part-time and when I'm not looking after my family I enjoy modelling. I love leather and latex and feel wonderful when I put on a figure hugging corset.

My first ever modelling session was only a couple of years ago and from then on things just took off. I've been photographed by several different photographers, they all have their own unique style and each one reveals a different part of my personality. Modelling has really boosted my confidence and self-image. My hair colour is always changing and I've been to lots of really interesting locations from waterfalls and pools to abandoned railway depot.

I am very skilled at the art of Japanese rope bondage which is called Shibari. I have been hired to tie up models in intricate rope designs for their photoshoot and it's a great experience for me and the model. I'd love to have all my rope work gathered together in a book full of photographs and models.
